Ground Broken For Addition To Courthouse

PORTERVILLE — Tulare County officials broke ground Tuesday for a $431,000 addition to the Porterville municipal court, 87 East Morton avenue, that will provide a second courtroom and branch offices for the county district attorney and probation departments.

The 11,800-square-foot addition, scheduled for completion in September, will be financed with federal revenue sharing funds.

The L-shaped, two-story addition will surround two sides of the existing court building. The new courtroom, judge's chambers, attorney conference rooms, library, and district attorney's offices will be on the first floor with probation and staff facilities located on the second floor.

Availability of two courtrooms will reduce the need to use the Porterville City hall for juvenile court and overflow settings for preliminary hearings

Editorial Comment

By CLEM WHITAKER JR.

Energy and integration have a lot in common. Both are applauded as socially necessary and society wants each developed in some other neighborhood.

The Irish, the Poles, the Italians, the Chinese, the Blacks, the Browns — the Protestants, the Catholics, the Jews — all have swallowed the bitter taste of social ostracism. Most every race and religion has at some point in time. Like the poor, the not-so-poor and the well-to-do, most have faced discrimination of one type or another during recorded civilization.

People are sort of treating energy the way they treat people. It's necessary but can't it be produced out of sight at negligible cost in a manner which doesn't offend anyone?

The answer, unfortunately, is no.

The United States, as with much of the industrialized world, has a monumental energy crisis. The cost in higher energy prices threatens to destroy the economy unless useage is reduced and additional domestic and/or reliable sources can be developed.

Known sources of energy are available, if developed, to meet U.S. needs. The cost still is high. But the sources are available for development.

There are those, however, who object to the integration of massive new strip mine coal sources into the energy mix.

Then there are those who have virtually fought additional nuclear power plant construction to a standstill. Don't work on the problem this way, they say.

There is a lot of oil in the nation's offshore areas, but that, too, is a screaming no, no. Don't run the risk of despoiling our beaches. Go develop solar energy.

Solar energy, of course, may well come one day, just as limitless hydrogen may one day be developed from the ocean. Both are a long way down the track.

And so goes the argument. No one wants to integrate supply and demand. The sad thing is that the same poor, the same discriminated against, the jobless, the elderly and those barely able to make it with both husband and wife working are the ones who will suffer the most again.

Also featured as leaders in the clinic will be coaches of championship teams from high school leagues in the geographical area: Paul Briggs of Bakersfield High school; Merv Huston of Shafter High school; Gene Beck of Delano High school; and Gary Ogilvie of Tehachapi High school.

Kloppenburg emphasized that the clinic is designed for all persons who are coaching young people in football, including elementary, junior high, Pop Warner, Jack Frost, and other leagues.

The clinic programs will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and will include a lunch at the college student union. Persons interested in registration information may contact Kloppenburg at the college, phone 781-3130.

Henke recorded for RCA Victor and Contemporary Records; he first came to California in 1945 with the Horace Heidt band; in the mid-1950s he started doing television work with Walt Disney, eventually writing the musical background for some 2,080 animated commercials.

Through the years Henke worked as a performer in many of the top supper clubs in America; was musical director for the Gary Moore show, "Take It Or Leave It," sponsored by Eversharp; worked as a sideman on many of the nation's top TV shows; and also worked on the staff of both ABC and NBC in Chicago.

"One of the greatest talents to ever play the Memorial auditorium stage," is the way Henke is classed by Buck Shaffer, producer of the City of Hope Spectacular.

Diane Pierce, of Exeter, currently Miss Tulare County, will also guest star as a vocal soloist on the City of Hope Spectacular, backed by the entire Fabulous Studio band.

Miss Pierce, runner-up last year for the Miss California title and winner of the Miss California Pageant talent contest, is now attending College of the Sequoias in Visalia.

OUR TOWN

I have to type very carefully today. I only have one more piece of typing paper left, and I do so hate to get down on my tender knees and beg for more. He gave me some last year, and I just ran out. My typewriter ribbon is getting a little faint also. Dear Ole BILL.

Of course you know that all the really famous people in the world were born in February. Me, for one. I actually didn't think I would live this long. The last day of this month, I will be sixty years old, and I can't believe it. I was born at a great time. I have come from the horse and buggy, to jets and landings on the moon. I can remember the first crystal set my brothers made, and remember how exciting it was to hear about Lindbergh crossing the Atlantic. I also remember the fun of putting a powder in the palm of my hand, adding a little water, and presto soap suds. Also, the thrill, when we bought a new Dodge touring car, with side curtains to keep the wind off the children in the back seat. If we didn't behave in the back seat, my father had a sure remedy. "If you can't be pleasant back there, get out and walk." Once he took about as much quarreling in the back seat as he could stand, he stopped the car, and ordered us out, and drove away, disappearing over the hill. My two brothers and I stood like stone, at the side of the road. There was nothing to do but walk. We walked for a long time before we spotted the car. My mother and father were calmly sitting in the car waiting for us, and after that when we quarreled, we kept it very quiet.

I was really a rotten sister. I had two quiet intelligent older brothers, and I made their lives miserable. They are both dead now, and I would give a lot to be able to show them how sorry I am. I hated school, and did very poorly, but it didn't seem to bother me. They were A students, and a credit to our family, but I was a thorn. Once in awhile they would get back at me, when I pushed a little too much. Once they buried me. They dug a big hole in the sand, and talked me into getting in the hole. I stood there in the hole, and they shoveled in the sand, so just my head was left out. Then they did an Indian War Dance around my head, packing in the sand so I couldn't move. Then they left. My mother finally heard me yelling, and dug me out, but she didn't say a word. She knew I must have done something, to deserve such treatment. Another time, my brothers were playing street car. Mother's clothes line had about four lines, and the boys were pretending they were conductors, holding up sticks which touched the lines, and running back and forward making noises like a trolley bell. I, of course, wanted to play, and was nasty until they finally gave me a pipe to use instead of a

NEARLY 95,000 PERSONS ATTEND CALIF. FARM EQUIPMENT SHOW

TULARE — Over 94,876 visitors from throughout the nation jammed through the gates 1975 California Farm Equipment show in what amounted to the largest agricultural exhibition in the West's history.

This year's crowd exceeded past attendance by more than 11,926 people, according to Dan Johns, show manager, who says already numerous exhibitors have signed up for next year.

"Many exhibitors are planning to expand their booths next year," Johns commented. "Both the Australian and Canadian governments for example are interested in sizeable expansion for 1976. The Australians are even considering a sheep shearing demonstration for next year."

Several other foreign countries are also considering exhibiting in the 1976 show. Consulates from France, England, New Zealand, Belgium and Finland all attended this year's show to make reports to their government.

Visitors saw more equipment this year than ever before, totaling nearly $12.5 million in diversified products. The show traditionally provides farmers with an opportunity to look over new equipment one exhibitor explained, but this year the visitors were just as stick. I didn't know they had attached a battery to the wire line, and when my pipe touched the clothes line I got the shock of my life, much to their delight.

Happiness is having two brothers, who taught me a lot.

FARM COMMODITY PRICES IN STATE

SACRAMENTO — California farmers received lower prices in mid-January for hogs, slaughter cows and milk cows, but prices of other meat animals were up from mid-December. Feed grain and wheat prices all declined from December 15. Broiler prices rose 15 percent but prices of market eggs and milk showed slight decreases.

ACTIVE DUTY

VISALIA — Danny R. Lundien, of Porterville, has entered active duty in the U.S. Air Force with a guaranteed job in the mechanical field. He is now taking six weeks basic training at Lackland Air Force base in Texas.

BARTON SMITH, of Tulare, will serve as chairman for the 1976 California Farm Equipment Show - the ninth annual - that will be staged on the Tulare County fairgrounds in Tulare, in February of 1976.

Many exhibitors ran out of literature and inventory during the first two days of the show and one dealer reported promised sales in excess of $240,000.

SMILES ON FARM FRONT

VISALIA — Farmers are smiling in Tulare county as a result of rain in the foothills and valley during February, and snow in the mountains that has improved the potential for water runoff during the spring.

Clyde R. Churchill, county agricultural commissioner, reports that rain has been highly beneficial to seeded grain fields, to dryland grain, and to foothill range feeds.

He says sugar beets are making good growth; alfalfa fields are being grazed by sheep; and cotton land preparation is continuing.

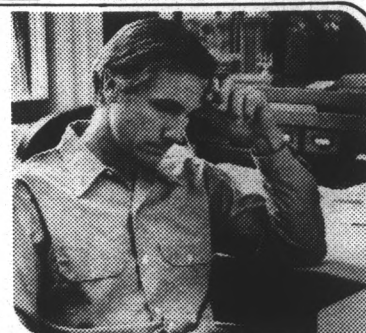

Pruning and dormant spraying continues in deciduous orchards and in vineyards as weather allows; buds are beginning to swell in some orchards; and bees are being placed in almond orchards in anticipation of bloom coming on.

SHAMROCKS AGAINST DYSTROPHY

PORTERVILLE — With the theme, "Shamrocks Against Dystrophy," first 1975 campaign for funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America was launched Monday in Porterville, under direction of Leo Burton, Porterville volunteer.

Burton says the campaign will run through March 17 - Saint Patrick's day - with the probability that a door-to-door solicitation will be conducted by a local youth group in March.

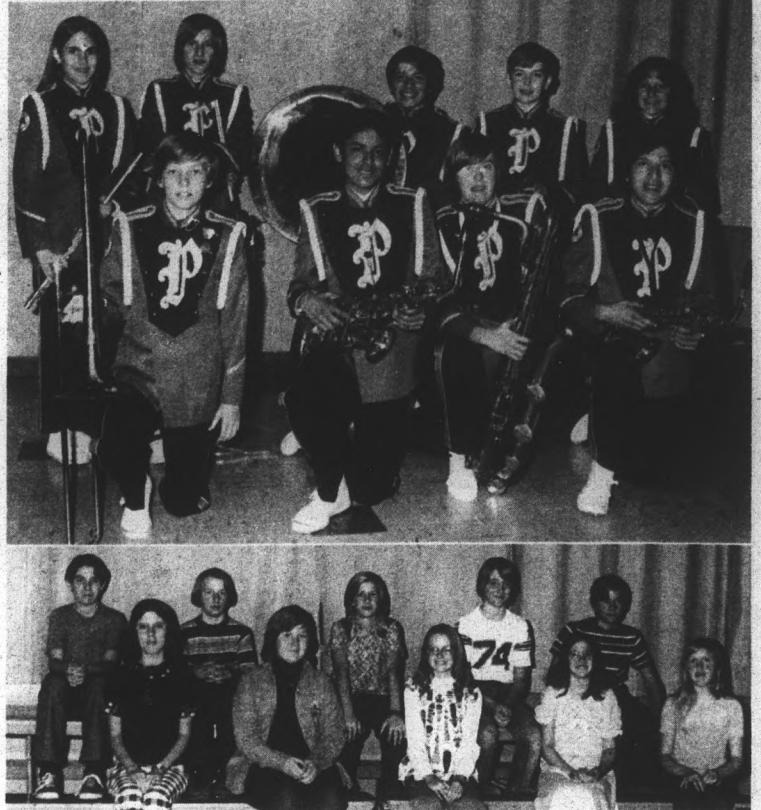

Anyone soliciting Muscular Dystrophy funds at any time will carry proper identification, Burton says.

During the summer other fund-raising events are planned - backyard carnivals and a skate-a-thon, then the annual Muscular Dystrophy national telethon, with Jerry Lewis.

Burton urges support for the local fund-raising campaigns, asking people to "Remember, Your Help Is Their Hope."

Desert valley grapefruit crop is estimated at 19 percent above last year.
